

PLANTING A MULTI SPECIES COVER CROP

Have you considered planting a multi species cover crop?

If you're wondering why you would or what's the science behind it, join us to hear from soil educator Joel Williams on the practicalities and benefits, the challenges, and what local producers have been doing.

This session will cover:

- What is a cover crop / multi species crop?
- How they can assist in improving soil health
- How they can increase the flexibility of your enterprise
- Reducing your long term input cost
- + much more!
